Matt Baker stepped up at the last minute on the evening before the meeting to volunteer to take the program today. He spoke on how legislation at the state level gets made.

Matt began with the context that there are 2-3 thousand bills introduced in any given year. Only about 10% get enacted into law. The process is very complicated because of the check and Balances built into the system. Plus, amendments are always being added. Matt has had over 30 bills passed into law, plus he was influential in getting a multi-million dollar grant for Wellsboro's Soldiers + Sailors Hospital Emergency Department expansion.

As chairman of the health Committee, Matt oversees legislation that has to do with health insurance and the well-being of the citizens, as well as $30 Billion in state health expenditures.. Last year, there was a big fight over making Oral Chemo Medication have parity with intravenous medicine for insurance reimbursement. Many times, the drugs are more expensive, because these oral medications can attack the cancer better. With over 80,000 people in Pennsylvania diagnosed with cancer every year, having effective drugs that are covered under insurance plans is very important.

Illegal drugs have been a growing concern over the last decade. The increase of “designer drugs,” where maybe one or two ingredients is changes to side-step the rules and illegality, has been a major factor. 10 people die every day in Pennsylvania from drug overdoses, and this is the worst public health crisis in recent history.

Matt has 65,000 constituents in a land area that is larger than the 62 most populated districts in the state. He has been ranked #1 in the state for constituent services for the last 24 years. His 3 local offices process over 1,000 PennDot services a month. Matt handed out several brochure explaining the complicated legislative process.
